Naguib, top, hands an ownership deed to an old peasant woman. Each landless peasant was given from two to five acres of land appropriated from big landowners. A poor peasant, bottom, tries to decipher the writing on his deed while a blind man at his side feels the paper that makes him a landowner.

New Boss Takes Over American Overseas Information Program

WASHINGTON (AP)—Theodore C. Streibert, New York radio executive, is taking over the tough job of directing the American overseas information program just as it is to be overhauled.

Streibert, former board chairman of the Mutual Broadcasting System, was nominated Thursday by President Eisenhower to head the new United States information Agency.

Agencies Combined

Saturday this agency takes over from the State Department the work of the International Information Administration, including the Voice of America radio. It also will absorb other operations.

Today is also the last day of life for the Mutual Security Agency, barring some 11th-hour changes of signals. As part of the Eisenhower administration's latest government reorganization, a new Foreign Operations Administration will assume present MSA functions, among several others.

MSA Director Harold E. Stassen is expected to continue in charge of American foreign aid as director of FOA. He has had a three-month ber advisory group at work for the past two months, getting ready for the changeover.

Criticized By McCarthy

Streibert succeeds Dr. Robert L. Johnson, who is returning to his job as president of Temple University. Johnson resigned because of ill health after a strenuous five-month career as head of the information operation.

During that period, the agency was the target of heated criticism in Congress, particularly by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.).

Streibert, at the White House late

Thursday when his nomination was announced, said he knows he faces a tough job. President Eisenhower said in a statement that "our information service never carried a heavier responsibility than it does now."

"The service must clearly and factually present to the world the policies and objectives of the United States," Eisenhower said.

Rent Controls Die At Midnight In 1,100 Areas

WASHINGTON (AP)—Federal rent control, last of the economic curbs born of World War II, dies at midnight tonight in some 1,100 communities across the nation.

Office of Rent Stabilization officials said they do not expect any wave of drastic rent increases to follow. One official estimated rents generally will go up about 10 per cent.

States Step In

Some states are prepared to step in with their own laws. New York has had such legislation for some time. Massachusetts, New Jersey and Kansas have adopted laws which permit imposition of state control. Connecticut has a law that becomes effective automatically when federal curbs end.

Of the big cities outside these states, only Philadelphia and Baltimore have passed controls ordinances.

Federal rent control first went into effect in April 1942. At the height of World War II, some 16 million units were covered.

Agency Abolished

After tonight, only about 120,000 units in scattered critical defense areas will remain subject to federal rent supervision.

These are areas that include military or atomic energy installations where there has been a substantial influx of personnel, and where housing shortages are found to threaten to result in excessive rent boosts.

These areas are to remain under rent control until next April 30, unless government surveys show before then that their housing problems have been met.

The federal rent agency that at one time had 5,000 employees will go out of existence tonight.

Reserve Officer Roster Trimmed

WASHINGTON (AP)—About 27,000 reserve officers will hang up their uniforms during the next 11 months as the services trim down to the manpower levels for which Congress provided money.

The Air Force will return to civilian life about 12,500 who must be dropped to make room for new lieutenants from the Reserve Officers Training Corps.

The Army said Thursday about 8,000 reservists would go off active duty in addition to those finishing regular tours. The Marine Corps set its figure at 500. The Navy has made no official estimate, but an informed guess is 6,000.

Reds Charge Allied Airplanes Violated Four-Day-Old Truce

MUNSAN (AP)—The Reds accused the Allies today of two new truce violations but a U. N. spokesman said the charges were not serious.

The accusations came as the Korean Military Armistice Commission and other truce groups met at Panmunjom.

The Communists made their 11th and 12th complaints of Allied truce violation in the 4-day-old truce at the hour and 45-minute meeting of the U. N. Red armistice commission. The commission is charged with policing the 2½-mile-wide demilitarized zone across Korea.

The Communists said military aircraft circled and reconnoitered over the zone Wednesday and Thursday.

Complaints Not Serious

Maj. Gen. Blackshear M. Bryan, head of the U. N. team on the commission, said the complaints would be investigated but they they were not serious.

There were indications the U. N. Command is trying to steer clear of arguments over what it considers accidental or extremely minor violations.

There was no indication yet whether the Allies would accuse the Reds of a violation following Air Force reports that large numbers of planes—probably MIG fighters—flew south from Manchuria into North Korea Monday night after the cease-fire deadline.

Prisoners On Move

Armistice terms specify that only replacement armament is to be allowed into North or South Korea and that under supervision.

A joint Allied-Red group discussed final details for exchanging prisoners, which is to begin next Wednesday.

The way met, the U. N. Command said it would move more Red prisoners north toward the exchange point at Panmunjom Sunday.

At Panmunjom, Allied soldiers rushed preparations to receive the 12,761 Allied prisoners—3,313 of them Americans. About 69,000 North Koreans and 5,000 Chinese will be turned back to the Reds.

During the hearing, the 36-year-old old Georgia-born preacher asserted he is not now and never has been a Communist.

He shouted that two former Communists who branded him as a Red were "liars and perjurers" and "ought to be so charged and tried."

The lanky witness, quick in speech and a hard man to quiet, gave the committee what one member, Rep. Clancy (R-Mich.), called "an exasperating day."

No Changes In Fingerprinting Practice Here

Delta County law enforcement officers, meeting Thursday with Nicholas P. Chapekis, prosecuting attorney, agreed to continue taking fingerprints in misdemeanor cases.

The question whether fingerprinting of persons charged with misdemeanors is legal has been under discussion here the past several weeks, following suit by an Escanaba for recovery of fingerprints from the Escanaba police department.

The attorney general of Michigan, Frank G. Millard, in an opinion July 18, said that law enforcement officers may not take fingerprints in cases which can be tried by a justice of the peace.

The suit by Horace L. Cross against G. E. Leonard, Escanaba safety director, in which Cross petitions for return of all of his fingerprints, was filed in circuit court in June. It may be heard at the August term of circuit court, Prosecutor Chapekis said this morning.

Law officers yesterday also discussed procedures which will be followed in criminal cases to be heard in the August term of circuit court.

Two applications for permits to carry concealed weapons were approved yesterday, during a separate meeting of Sgt. Edward C. Goldsworthy of the Gladstone State Police Post, Sheriff William Miron and Prosecutor Chapekis. They were for Charles R. O'Neil, Rte. 1, Escanaba, and Joseph A. Jacke, Old State Road. The pistols are to be used for hunting in season and target practice in day-light hours.

Charge Pickets Violated Law

IRON MOUNTAIN—Warrants charging nine CIO Union members with obstructing and interrupting the use of a railway, in violation of state law, were issued Thursday morning in the office of Prosecutor John V. Zanardi.

The warrants were turned over to Justice Claude James, of Kingsford, before whom the men will be arraigned when the warrants are served, Zanardi said. Kingsford police reported at 1:15 p. m. today that the warrants had not yet been turned over to them by Justice James for service on the men.

The incident mentioned in the complaints occurred shortly before 8 Wednesday morning at the Carpenter avenue railroad crossing, approaching the chemical plant when a group of pickets stopped a company engine from leaving the plant yard.

The pickets, the report added, stood grouped on the track as the engine approached. The engine was stopped at a point about midway across Carpenter avenue, leaving room on the highway for traffic to pass. The sheriffs department and the Kingsford police were summoned to the scene.

Newberry Boating Races Unsponsored By U.P. Association

Outboard motor boat racing at the Newberry Elks picnic Sunday at Luce county park, 15 miles west of Newberry, will not be sponsored by the U. P.-Wisconsin Racing Association, according to members of the association.

The association has sanctioned a race at Land O' Lakes, Wisconsin Sunday, and most members will compete there, it was learned. The Newberry Elks outboard race will be sponsored by the Tahquamenon Racing Association, it was pointed out, and a large list of entries has been received from eastern upper Michigan.

Escanaba Daily Press Has 'New Look' Today

Inside and back pages of the Escanaba Daily Press will take on a "new look" today.

Elimination of eight column identification and page date lines and substitution of small one-column lines will make the Press more "streamlined" for modern, fast reading, it is announced. Use of new heads on the Gladstone, Manistique and society pages also will provide a more attractive and "streamlined" makeup.

New modern type for the departmental pages is 8-point Ludlow Karnak Light, a neat, trim type that will replace the outmoded mastheads used previously on the Gladstone, Manistique and society pages.

Better Appearance

Generally, the changes will provide a more pleasing appearance, greater readability and more space for additional news in each day's issue, it is announced. Up to 40 additional column inches of space will be provided by changes in effect permanently today.

Eliminating the eight-column top lines, sometimes referred to in the printing trade as page mastheads, will enable headlines of news stories, picture captions and information in advertisements to be displayed more prominently and advantageously.

Another "new look" change is elimination of the eight column banner and publicity data on the classified ad page. Information previously contained in this eight-column line will be transferred to the want ad page box which regularly appears in the upper left hand corner of the classified page.

Distinct Improvement

The new Ludlow type on the departmental pages will not include the name of the respective editor, such as society editor on the woman's page, or respective branch manager or other data, it was pointed out. It is felt that this information is commonly known and therefore unnecessary to be repeated in each day's issue.

Judge Dundon reported that the hearing may not be held until early next week because her investigation may not be completed until Saturday. The law requires a thorough investigation into Robare's background.

Robare, apprehended in Chicago where he had feigned amnesia for 10 days while in custody of Chicago police, confessed to Chief Frank Pipp that on last July 11 he beat Mrs. Bergstrom with milk bottles and stole her car. He was missing for 14 days after the attack.

He is being held at the county jail as a delinquent youth, but without formal charge. Specific charges will be filed after the hearing.

Teamsters' Union—Local 328 of the Teamsters and Chauffeurs union will hold its regular monthly meeting at 7:30 p. m., Saturday in the Teamsters' Hall 1229 Sheridan Road.

Enrollment Time—Enrollment for Beginning Speech Correction for Teachers 204 at Powers-Spalding High School will be held at the school Monday, Aug. 3, at 9 a. m. not 9 p. m. as stated previously.

Motorists Ticketed—Traffic violation tickets have been issued by Escanaba police to the following motorists: John F. Berndt, Escanaba, failure to yield right of way; William F. Maycunich, 1604 N. 18th St., failure to have car under control; and Gordon B. Micheau, Bark River, disobeying stop sign.

There was no fire.

Dewey, Stephens Held For Trial

MARQUETTE—John E. Stephens, 24, formerly of East Munising, and Donald Dewey, 25, Detroit, waived preliminary examination when arraigned before United States Commissioner Rose W. Baldwin on two Federal charges.

The pair, alleged to have broken into the People's State Bank building, Munising, last Friday, are charged with burglary of a bank and transportation of a stolen automobile through several states.

On the first charge, Commissioner Baldwin set the bond at $5,000 each; on the second, at $2,500 each. Neither defendant posted the bond, and both were committed to the Marquette County jail, which is a Federally-approved jail.

Stephens and Dewey were apprehended by Escanaba city police officers on patrol.

The young men were armed with loaded revolvers, and also had a loaded rifle in the car, when seized by Escanaba police. Both Stephens and Dewey are ex-convicts.

Stephens and Dewey were brought to the Marquette County jail late yesterday by State Police Detective George Strong and Technology, Houghton, which he attended from 1938 to 1941.

Finnish Doctor Will Visit Here

The Delta-Menominee Health department next week will be visited by a doctor from Finland.

The visiting medical expert, Dr. Ester Virkkunen, has spent the past year studying at Harvard University and now is touring the United States. She will be here Aug. 3, 4 and 5.

During her stay in Escanaba, Dr. Virkkunen will be a guest of Sirkka Saarelainen and the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Leisola at 1023 S. 6th Ave. Miss Saarelainen, a laboratory technician at St. Francis Hospital, and her parents came here a few years ago from Finland.

Dr. Virkkunen is the founder of the Business and Professional Woman's club in Finland and in 1946 her picture appeared on a commemorative postage stamp issued in that country.

While here Dr. Virkkunen will observe work of the health department. Monday she is scheduled to attend a clinic for Indians on the Hannahville reservation, conducted by Dr. William C. Hartran, director of the Delta-Menominee Health Department.

Social arrangements for the visiting doctor will be handled by Miss Hilma Asikainen, nurse at the health department here, and Miss Saarelainen. A visit to a summer cottage in Kipling, where the Leisolas are vacationing, is planned, as well as dinners and a visit to a "sauna," traditional Finnish steam bath.

Some of the youngsters will return home with their parents Sunday, and others will be returned by members of the Escanaba Rotary Club Tuesday.

The handicapped children left June 23 to attend the 6-week camp, directed by Miss Elba Morse of Marquette.

Two Escanabans, Miss Elizabeth Leiper and Henry Wylie, served on the camp staff this summer.

Today, two Delta-Menominee Health Department nurses, the Misses Cora Bennett, field trainee, and Lois Nelson, visited Bay Cliff, and Lois Nelson, visited Bay Cliff.

Pairings will be arranged by Harry Meiers and Art Jensen of the Escanaba club and Walter Vandeweghe, Gladstone.

Hold a hearing on the petition in Marquette next month.

MARQUETTE—Thomas Brunette, 49, who was critically injured in a gun accident in his home at 550 West Bluff Street Wednesday afternoon, was reported to be in "fair condition" in St. Mary's Hospital.

City police reported Brunette said he had accidentally shot himself while cleaning and testing his 22 caliber rifle.

Brunette told police he was cleaning the weapon and placed a shell in the chamber to see whether or not it would stick. The gun discharged, he told officers, and the blast entered his abdomen below the heart, and went out through his back.

There was no one else home at the time, and Brunette said he thought he passed out for a while. When he came to, he called a telephone operator, who summoned police.

Some of the loot has been recovered, but the two men had only two cents left when apprehended. They had reportedly stolen $500 from Judge Nebel's office.

High School Graduates Have Opportunity In Flight Training

THE change in U. S. Air Force policy opening flight training to high school graduates offers a grand opportunity for young men to enter this field of training that was not previously available to them unless they possessed a college education.

Not all branches of flight training are available to high school graduates but the field covers a wide range of specialties, including navigator, bombardier, armament officer, radar intercept officer, etc. About the only field presently unavailable is pilot training.

The change in the regulations apparently developed because the Air Force was not getting sufficient qualified men to meet their requirements in officer ranks other than for pilot training.

In changing their requirements to include applicants with a high school education, the Air Force is not necessarily lowering its standards. The screening of applicants undoubtedly will be strict but there are a large number of bright young men who can qualify. The U. S. Air Force learned in World War II that it was able to secure its need for the flying service from the pool of high school graduates and these young men made a great record under combat conditions.

The opportunity is now available and it comes at a particularly appropriate time. Until recently enlistments in the Air Force were closed and the 1953 crop of high school graduates were denied the chance to choose the Air Force for their military service.

Best of all, the applicants do not enlist until they learn whether or not they are qualified for flight training. Their expenses are paid to and from Truax Field, Madison, Wis., where the classification tests are given.

past conditional—"Which of the two following forms is preferred—and why: (a) 'I would like to slip the mother's quaint sunbonnet under my arm and walk off with it'; (b) 'I would like to have slipped the mother's quaint sunbonnet under my arm and to have walked off with it'?"—L. P. A., Milwaukee, Wis.

If you change "would" to "should," to preserve the idiomatic distinction between will and shall, sentence (a) would be the preferred usage. The present infinitives to slip and (to) walk express time that is contemporaneous with that of the main verb should have liked, which expresses a condition that is past. That is, the "liking" occurred at some past time, and the "slipping" and "walking" were at that same time. If the "liking" were at the present time, whereas the opportunity for "slipping" and "walking" had been, say, yesterday, then the construction should be, "I should like to have slipped the mother's quaint sunbonnet under my arm and to have walked off with it."

farther, further—"Should one use farther or further in such a sentence as 'I might go a step (farther, further) and say . . .'"—Miss R. G. O., Savannah, Ga.

There is actually little grounds for selecting one in preference to the other. In England, for instance, there is a tendency to use further for all occasions. But with us the present preference, frequently ignored, is to use farther in reference to distance in space only, and further for all other occasions. Thus, "I'll go no one step farther," meaning a greater distance; but, "I might go a step further and say . . ." meaning go beyond what has been said.

Driver Practice

Is Good Sense

PILOTS have said it's easier and safer to drive an airplane than a car. That shouldn't be true, but it probably is.

The principal reason is that the pilot is about a thousand times better trained for his job than is the auto driver. That, plus the fact the pilot follows the regulations. Most earthbound drivers don't.

We're not going into the much-preached need for every car driver to follow the basic rules—proper hand signals, staying within speed limits, obeying the center line markings on the highway. The driver who doesn't know and do those things can't be appealed to through reason, anyway.

What we'd like to hit on here are some things above and beyond the fundamentals—matters of driving technique whose mastery can be both a source of stimulating interest, and a life saver.

For instance, have you ever thought out in advance what you'd do at the top of a hill if you were abruptly confronted with two cars coming at you abreast, one passing the other, on a two-lane highway?

The next time you're driving through the country imagine such a situation occurring at the top of every hill you go over. Look ahead and see what you would do if it happened, remembering that a head-on crash is probably the most deadly accident of all.

Is there a deep cut at the top of the hill with steep banks on each side of the road? If so, it might be a good idea to steer off the road and shoot up the bank on the right at a 40-degree angle. Your car might roll over, but in all probability that would be better than colliding head-on with the car coming at you.

Or maybe heavy trees are growing on both sides of the road at the top of the hill. Hitting one of the trees would be almost as bad as hitting the other car. In that case, you'll probably want to cut your speed sharply before you get to the crest. Just in case.

Rolling along at 60 miles an hour, imagine from time to time that you have a blow-out. With no one coming toward you, and a deep ditch on the right, you'd probably try to hold the car in the center of the road and ride it out, remembering to keep your foot off the brake.

But what if the blow-out sets your car to weaving violently and you are meeting other cars? If there's anything like open, level ground to the right, you may want to leave the road and head for the open spaces instead of running the risk of weaving into the path of the oncoming cars.

Other Editorial Comments

FOLLOW TOO CLOSELY

(Marinette Eagle-Star)

One of the rules of the road is that you should not follow a car so closely that you can't stop in time to avoid hitting it if the driver of the lead car should stop suddenly or slow down.

Failure to observe this rule undoubtedly was the cause of a pile-up of cars on highway US-31 near Rothschild Saturday morning with the result that one man was killed and 10 other persons were injured.

Six cars were involved in the accident and it could only happen when cars are not sufficiently spaced for safety. The speed at which cars are being driven these days is all the more reason for maintaining the margin of safety between cars. Even the best of cars can't be stopped within a few feet when they are driven 50, 60 or more miles per hour.

Mother of Today Is Safer In Childbirth Than Ever

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M. D. — Written for NEA Service

The mother of today is safer in childbirth, and less likely to suffer severely than ever before in the history of the world.

Only 75 years ago child-bearing was a risky business: childbed fever was widespread and highly fatal, blood transfusion which now saves so many lives was nonexistent, and Caesarean section was too dangerous to contemplate.

Today, in the United States, fewer than two mothers die in each thousand deliveries, and this can be even further reduced as facilities are extended. Not so long ago most babies were born in the home. Today more than four out of five are born in a hospital, and this ratio is even higher in the cities.

This change is partly responsible for the great improvement because many safeguards have been built up in good hospitals for maternity care, and, obviously, hospitals and their facilities can offer aid in emergencies of many mothers.

This is particularly true, perhaps, for blood transfusion which can be given promptly in a hospital for all bleeding in delivery which formerly took so many lives.

Equally gratifying has been the great improvement in the results of Caesarean section, that kind of operative delivery in which the baby is taken directly from the WASHINGTON—It went unnoticed in the small print of the appropriations bill, but the Senate Appropriations Committee has promoted its favorite messenger boy to a major general. He is Maj. Gen. Robert Moore, who hasn't been promoted by the Army since he was a colonel. However, he's now promoted by act of Congress.

Moore has endeared himself to powerful senators by doing special favors, such as arranging trips abroad at the taxpayers' expense. In reward, the senators promoted him to be a brigadier general in 1950 by an unusual device. They tacked a rider on the appropriations bill which declared that the Army could not spend any of the money in the 1950-51 supplementary appropriations bill until their fair-haired boy was made a brigadier general.

The Army had several fighting colonels in Korea who deserved to be promoted, but it was forced to give first priority to Moore.

This year Moore apparently feels that his senatorial catering service deserves even higher rank, so his senator friends have slipped another rider into the appropriations bill forcing the Army to give Moore still another star before it can spend any money next year.

Army generals admit privately that they would like to get rid of Moore, but they are afraid of his powerful friends in the Senate. As long as he can ingratiate himself with senators, it looks as if his job is secure. If his present promotion rate keeps up maybe he'll be the nation's first five-star messenger.

IN CONGRESSIONAL CLOAKROOMS

Best job of GOP leadership has been in the house. Speaker Joe Martin and Charley Halleck of Indiana have held tight grip over GOP-ers—better than the Democrats did over their house forces under Truman . . . Republican leadership in the Senate without Taft has been shaky. Knowland of California is nice but not overly skilled. Democratic leaders are bitter toward Knowland. "I wouldn't trust him any further than I could throw him," says Johnson of Texas . . . the Democrats have been quietly cooperating with the Republicans regarding Taft's illness. When close party votes come up, Democrats have sometimes had one of their number stay off the Senate floor so as to give the Republicans the edge . . . it was on August 3—just a year ago—that this writer first exposed the discrimination of Navy brass hats against Capt. Hyman George Rickover because of his religion. Though Rickover is the Navy's top expert on the atomic submarine, a promotion board twice passed him over. Following this writer's expose, the Senate Armed Services Committee called Navy brass hats on the carpet re Rickover, and this week, one year later, Rickover was officially made an admiral.

IKE WANTS ADJOURNMENT

Reason why Congress hell-bent for adjournment, even if it kills some of the older senators, boils down chiefly to one thing—Ike wants to get Congress out of his hair.

He is fed up with congressmen, tired of soft-soaping and cajoling, bored with congressional liaison meetings, wants to get out to the cool of Colorado.

Some GOP leaders shake their heads ruefully, warn that tough legislative problems are not being settled, merely postponed until next year when things will be tougher. But Ike wants to send Congress home just the same.

That's behind the night sessions, the frenzied compromising, the jamming through of legislation so fast that most congressmen don't know what's in the bills.

IKE'S LUCK

"Ike's a lucky guy," opined one GOP leader. "Stalin waited for him to take office before he died, leaving Russia in a tither. Then he knocked off a Korean truce. Now he's lucky enough to have a Democratic opposition that doesn't know the score."

"If the Democrats were as smart as we were in boxing Harry Truman, they would make us look like political mincemeat. But Ike's lucky."

What he referred to is the manner in which the Republican National Committee rolled out the mimeographed speeches for congressmen to deliver on the floor by the bushel basket. A battery of thirty ghost writers, stenographers and researchers kept GOP senators and congressmen supplied with ammunition every day of the week. Today the Democrats are broke, well-intentioned and not alert. No master strategy is being cooked. The Democratic National Committee even lacks a contact man to work with congress, let alone speech writers.

TRUMAN GOT THERE FIRST

The other day columnist Bob Allen dropped in to see Democratic Chairman Steve Mitchell.

"What do you thing of President Truman's speech schedule out in Detroit and Minneapolis?" he inquired.

"What?" asked the surprised Democratic chairman.

"Yes, Harry's going to speak in Detroit on Labor Day and then Senator Humphrey has got him to speak in Minneapolis on Sept. 12, later that week."

Mitchell hadn't even heard about it. That was why Adlai Stevenson's big homecoming meeting in Chicago suddenly was shifted from Sept. 11 to Sept. 14.

LOST AND FOUND—Walter Hornstein of Garden and Marquette telephoned me the other day to get word to visiting archaeologists that the Garden area may have just what they are looking for—an ancient Indian village site.

Busy in Marquette as an officer of the Mining Journal Company, Walter missed seeing the archaeologists from Washington D. C. and Ann Arbor when they were there.

Two ancient copper artifacts have been found at Garden near the Hornstein home, he reported. One is a spear head of "Lake Superior style" dug up in the Hornstein garden a few years ago.

The other is a copper chisel with a squared end found by the late Ed LaMotte at Garden—but lost in a fire that destroyed the LaMotte household effects. The chisel, said Walter, was unusual in that the sides were engraved.

Because the artifacts were discovered in glacial drift, high above the present water level, Hornstein is convinced they are a significant find. Dr. Albert C. Spaulding, assistant professor of anthropology at the University of Michigan, will be informed of the finds, I assured him.

RECOGNITION—National Music Camp at Interlochen, Michigan, is unique for several reasons, among them being its founder, Dr. Joseph Maddy, who has seen it grow through the years to its present outstanding success.

Three Escanaba young people a couple weeks ago met Dr. and Mrs. Maddy at a reception at Interlochen, where they were music students. They are Sara Dunathan, Catherine and William E. Harrison.

The Northern Michigan contingent was much in the minority at Interlochen, for most of the students were from Detroit and other downstate communities.

With so many students being received by Dr. Maddy and his wife there was little time for more than a handshake. Yet when the Escanaba students told him where they lived he smiled warmly and delayed them a moment in the line.

"Ah," he said with evident pleasure, "Escanaba! I have fished there!"

Note: A total of 1,600 students and instructors are enrolled at the camp for periods ranging from two weeks to the entire summer season. All of the musical arts are taught there, including dancing and opera.

COST OF VANDALISM—Most costs of government cannot be reduced without a reduction in service, says Escanaba City Manager A. V. Aronson. But there is one item of expenditure for which the taxpayers receive no service in return—the repair or replacement of items damaged by vandals.

"The meter department reports that some 50 parking meters a week are damaged through vandalism," he said. "The cost of repairing these is estimated at approximately $10 per week."

The cost of replacing street lights broken by vandals is about $12 per week. Only a few weeks ago the meter-switch for lights at the tennis court in Luddington Park was destroyed by an act of vandalism and the cost of replacement was $150.

The police department is quite successful in apprehending vandals, but we appeal to the citizens to report vandalism incidents immediately upon discovery. In this way police effectiveness will be greatly enhanced," said the city manager.

If you can identify the culprits, give their names to police. You will be doing your town a service—and it will help reduce the needless expense connected with replacing and repairing damaged public property.

HELPING HAND—In Marinette you will see a chap, Robert "Bobby" Benson, who is unable to walk—but his effort to be self-supporting and live as normal a life as possible has won him city-wide acclaim.

Benson goes to and from his magazine stand and to other places downtown on a tricycle, but the ordinary tricycle soon wears out under such constant use.

F. X. Leannah, manager of the toy department at Lauerman Brothers store, contacted a toy manufacturing firm that constructs special vehicles for just such persons as Benson.

The manufacturer made one for Benson—free. Now he gets around faster and safer than ever. And when that one wears out there will be another one forthcoming, thanks to a tip from Leannah of Lauerman Brothers.

Lightning Bug Expert Retires

BALTIMORE (P)—The world's champion lightning bug catcher, a 15-year-old exponent of the free enterprise system, is hanging up his net and retiring from active competition.

Johns Hopkins University scientists concede they have a sufficient supply of the posterior of the photinus (lightning bug) and Jimmy Tracy figures he's outgrown his speciality.

Jimmy's decision means the bustup of quite a corporation.

He formed it when Dr. William D. McElroy and his Hopkins associates got interested in what makes lightning bugs glow.

The scientists offered two bits for each 100 lightning bugs and a grand prize of $10 at the end of the season for the champion catcher.

Jimmy hired his brother Donald and a bunch of the guys—Billy Phipps, John Cunner, Donald Rexroth and Billy McManus.

He figured with all of them contributing to one big catch in his name, they'd have a good chance of knocking off that championship prize money.

This year, the firm netted 78,000 bugs, 12,000 of them personal trophies of the champ, Jimmy Tracy. All told, Hopkins collected $10,000 in this year's roundup.

Naturally, they won the prize. They did last year too. Jimmy kept five bucks and let the gang split the other fin.

The boss treats his employees right. Not only do they get half of the prize money, but he gives them their full 25 cents for each hundred bugs.

But it's all over now.

"I'll be 16 Aug. 12 and I can work," Jimmy said.

Higher Postal Rates Proposed

By CONGRESSIONAL QUARTERLY
WASHINGTON — (CQ)—The postman has buzzed Congressional doors once again in a bid for reducing the Post Office Department deficit.

And if the move is successful here's what will happen to mail users:

1. A deep pink four cent stamp will be required for out-of-town letters. (The familiar purple three-cent still will be good for in-town first class mail.)

2. Airmail rates will go up—from 6 to 7 cents per ounce.

3. Book rates will increase from 8 to 10 cents for the first pound and from 4 to 5 cents for each extra pound.

4. Varied boosts will prevail for different types of 2nd and 3rd class mail.

Although Congressmen are talking a lot about "economy" and "balancing the budget" no signs of haste are apparent in handling the mail rate increase, asked by Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield.

Having just hiked postal rates in 1951—including a boost in the famous penny postcard rate to two cents—the legislators seem reluctant to act so soon again.

Summerfield is hoping they will, of course, but he's not relying entirely on Congress.

He has estimated the likely postal deficit for the year starting July 1 at $594 million, if he continued 1952-53 procedure.

His request for increases by Congress, if granted, would provide about $241 million. Through other means he hopes to get another $280 million, as follows: about $160 million from higher parcel post rates, already approved by the Interstate Commerce Commission, plus other fourth-class rate increases; about $40 million from a boost in overseas mail rates which he had authority to do himself; and approximately $80 million by elimination of subsidies to airlines (this step is provided for in President Eisenhower's Reorganization Plan No. 10 which goes into effect July 30 unless disapproved by either House or Senate).

He has estimated the likely postal deficit for the year starting July 1 at $594 million, if he continued 1952-53 procedure.

His request for increases by Congress, if granted, would provide about $241 million. Through other means he hopes to get another $280 million, as follows: about $160 million from higher parcel post rates, already approved by the Interstate Commerce Commission, plus other fourth-class rate increases; about $40 million from a boost in overseas mail rates which he had authority to do himself; and approximately $80 million by elimination of subsidies to airlines (this step is provided for in President Eisenhower's Reorganization Plan No. 10 which goes into effect July 30 unless disapproved by either House or Senate).

Having just hiked postal rates in 1951—including a boost in the famous penny postcard rate to two cents—the legislators seem reluctant to act so soon again.

Summerfield is hoping they will, of course, but he's not relying entirely on Congress.

Feast of St. Mary Of Angels Will Be Observed Sunday

Beginning Saturday, Aug. 1, at noon and running through Sunday, all Catholics can gain a plenary indulgence at St. Joseph Church, Escanaba. This is a special privilege attached only to a church administered by the Franciscan Fathers.

This indulgence is known as the Portiuncula Indulgence. The word "Portiuncula" refers to the "little portion" or tiny church of St. Mary of the Angels, the first Franciscan Church which was used by St. Francis in Assisi, Italy, in the 13th century.

Sunday is the feast of the "Portiuncula" or Church of our Lady of the Angels.

A plenary indulgence can be gained the same as on All Soul's Day, every time a visit is made to a Franciscan Church under the usual conditions of confessions and communion.

At each visit six Our Father's, Hail Mary's and Glory's must be said for the intention of the Holy Father.

One indulgence can be gained by the person making visits, and the rest must be gained for the souls in purgatory.

Jack Adams, general manager of the Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League, is interested in one of the Upper Peninsula's outstanding young players as a prospect for professional hockey. At a meeting here with players and fans last night, Adams said he was going to give Calumet's Fritz Kessanen, rugged defenseman, a tryout next winter. He said all reports on Kessanen indicate the youngster has good possibilities.

Asked if the vast junior hockey program being conducted in the United States is going to produce players capable of moving into professional circles, dominated by Canadians, Adams said: "There is no reason why United States players can't develop into excellent hockey players. If they get the proper coaching and plenty of competition, it won't be long before they begin showing up in the professional ranks."

It seems to us that Leo Knauf, Bark River baseball team business manager, has a point worth making in his communication to the readers which was published yesterday. If we recall correctly, Bark River's protest of a game with Hermansville was tossed out because of a technicality in the signing of the letter of protest to the league commissioner. As Leo points out, formal protests on use of an ineligible player weren't even submitted by Hermansville and Perronville, but those two teams were awarded games on protest over Wallace.

And if it is true, as Knauf says, that the disputed player was in uniform and ready to play a game in the first half which the opposition forfeited, then that player should certainly be considered eligible to compete in the second half. If that game is counted in the standings, then the player in question must be regarded as having taken part in a first half game.

Expect Large Field For Oldtimers Golf Meet Here Saturday

Golfing will continue from 8 to 11:30 when lunch will be served. Afternoon matches will start at 1 and the closing banquet will begin at 6:30 at the clubhouse.

Sport Shorties

Of 56 varsity football players at West Virginia University, 38 are from West Virginia, 13 from nearby Pennsylvania, four from Ohio and one from New York.

Because of major construction, the Hialeah track is closed to the public this summer for the first time since 1932.

One of the shortest boxing bouts on record occurred on May 12, 1940 when Willard Dean knocked out Claude Allen in 11 seconds at Corpus Christi, Tex.

Alice Altese Is U.P. Woman's Golf Champ, Beats Best In Finals

Alice Altese, current Gladstone Golf Club woman's champion, added the Upper Peninsula crown to her trophy collection yesterday by beating a determined Helen Best, Soo, Ont., 2 and 1, in the championship match at Highland Golf course.

The 1953 U. P. woman's champion gained the finals by edging Dorothy Coulter, also of the Gladstone Club, yesterday morning. Up Best had decided Jean McInnis, Soo, 1 up on the 20th hole to go into the championship match.

Best staged a strong finish to send the title match into the 17th hole. She won the 16th when her putt hung on the lip of the cup a second before dropping.

WINS ON PUTT — Alice Altese, Gladstone, applied the pressure on the 17th to end the match. Both players were on the green in three and Altese stepped up to drop a six-foot putt to go 2 up with one hole remaining.

McInnis, Soo, school teacher, defeated Coulter in the beaten two match.

Other final results yesterday at the Highland had Dorothy Anderson, Escanaba, winning in the beaten four of the championship flight. She won on a forfeit from Jackie Specker, Marquette, and beat Gladys Hansen, Highland, who had won over Marge LeMire.

Carolyn Johnson of Highland won the consolation in championship flight, beating Harriet Fitzharris, Escanaba, in the finals.

Hyde Upsets Dells 4-2

Hyde resumed its giant-killer role in the American Softball League last night and tripped the Dells 4-2 with a three run seventh inning.

Hyde led 1-0 until the sixth when the Dells put across a pair of runs on three singles. In the seventh Hyde came back with singles by Bittner, Tom Brayak and Ken Olson to clinch the win.

Brayak allowed six hits from the Hyde hill. Don Paulin gave up the same number for the Dells.

Hanschleifer called on John Pierpon to handle mound chores while beating HiWay Tavern 8-5. Pierpon tossed a five-hitter. Jack Tackman and Walter Lake worded for the HiWay and were touched for nine safeties. Scoops McDonald led the Harnies with two doubles and Lowell LaPlante had two for four. Lake's double was the only extra-base hit off Pierpon.

Leo Lancour pitched White Birch to a 6-2 victory over Paul Larson and Paper Mill.

Westby's and Kessler's played a practice game when the umpire failed to show at Royce Park last night.

LOSES MATCH WITH FIRST HOLE-IN-ONE

Miss Doran, 4 up at the turn over 19-year-old Virginia Denney of Lake Forest, Ill., escaped with a one-up victory when her young toe三三-putted the 18th hole.

Miss Devany was a one-up victory over Gloria Fecht, 26, former ice show skater from Palm Springs, Calif.

Barks Rally In Ninth To Win 12th Straight

The Bark River Barks came up with four runs in the final inning at Hermansville last night to post a last-ditch, 6-3, victory and extend their win streak to 12 games in the Tri County circuit.

The Barks were behind by one run, 3-2, going into the top of the ninth. They loaded the bases and Dick Douglas drove a long fly to right field which dropped out of the outfielder's mitt to score three runs. Wally Flath smacked a single to push Douglas home.

Ernie LaChapelle allowed only three hits and fanned 11 going all the way for Bark River.

Sales At G.M. Net 5½ Billion

NEW YORK (P)—General Motors Corp. had net sales of nearly 5½ billion dollars in the first six months of this year, according to the quarterly report to 491,000 stockholders.

First half net income was $312,845,787, equivalent to $35.1 a share of common stock after $6,464,156 in preferred dividends. For the like period last year net income was $269,048,085 or $3.01 a share after like amount in preferred dividends.

Net income was 5.8 per cent of the sales of $5,440,545,856. United States and foreign income taxes and excess profits taxes totaled 764 million dollars against 558 million in the corresponding half of 1952.

GM reported that it sold 1,120,276 cars and trucks in the second quarter of this year to set a new record for the company.

Of GM's net sales, 486 million dollars came from defense production in the second quarter of this year compared with 353 million in the corresponding 1952 quarter. For the first half, defense production reached 942 million dollars against 679 million in the like period last year.

Liquor Business Booms In State

LANSING (P)—Michigan's liquor business is booming, a report on sales during the past fiscal year showed.

The State Liquor Control Commission reported gross sales during the past year at $171,967,857, some $17,000,000 more than the gross of $154,404,038 in the previous fiscal year.

Net sales totaled $154,545,420, nearly $15,000,000 above the net of $139,674,022 in the previous fiscal year.

Commission spokesmen said the continued high level of employment and a good tourist year helped account for the increase.

Purchasers are buying about the same amount of whiskey, less wine and are spending more money on gin, brandy, rum and fancy cordials and specialties.

Boy Builds Himself Planetarium In Home

DALLAS, Tex. (P)—Visitors at the home of 14-year-old Harrison Sarrafian are a little startled when he flicks a switch and 1,500 stars in 89 constellations appear on the living room ceiling.

It took the junior high school student a year to build the instrument—a dodecahedron planetarium. During that time he taught himself German because many of the best books on astronomy are by German scientists.

"I started studying the stars when I was six, but I didn't get serious about it until I was nine," Harrison explains.

Baby Beater Jailed

CUMBERLAND, Md. (P)—Mrs. Madeline Hannas of nearby Wiley Ford, W. Va., was sentenced to 18 months in the Maryland Reformatory Tuesday for "beating, kicking and twisting around" her toddling grandson on a Cumberland street.

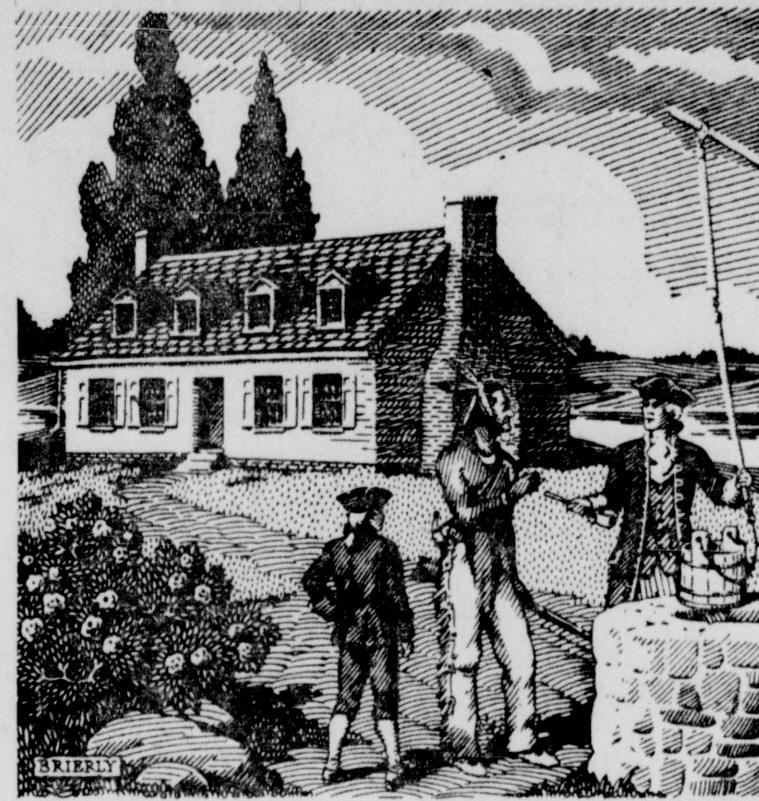

The grandmother, in her 40s, had said she was trying to keep the child awake.

WHIPPED-CREAM SHAVE

1737. SHADWELL, VA. Birthplace of THOMAS JEFFERSON.

AP Newsfeatures

This solidly built house, with its huge chimney, has long ago passed into history but its memory, as the birthplace of Thomas Jefferson, still remains. The story is that Jefferson's father, Colonel Peter Jefferson, owned a thousand acre farm, called Shadwell, on the north bank of the Rivanna, a little above its junction with the James River, near the then tiny village of Charlottesville. He couldn't find a spot he liked, upon which to build his house, so he persuaded a friendly neighbor to sell him 400 acres adjoining as a home site. The price paid, according to an old deed, was "Henry Weatherboun's biggest bowl of Arrack punch." The Colonel now had 1400 acres and, in 1737, built the house in which Thomas was born. Thomas inherited the house but, while he was absent in 1770, it burned to the ground and, with it, every precious book and document in his valuable library.

Gasoline Goes Down At Dearborn Stations

DETROIT (P)—A price war cut 3.1 cents off the cost of gasoline at seven Michigan Avenue stations in suburban Dearborn Thursday.

A newly-opened Giant station began selling regular gasoline for 26.9 cents a gallon and ethyl for 27.9. Two Standard and one Sunoco, Shell, Speedway and Texaco stations immediately slashed their prices.

M. E. Greenspon, manager of the Giant station, said, "There is no reason why gasoline should be so high in Michigan."

Burglaries Pay For Honeymoon

WASHINGTON (P)—Police quoted Edward Patrick Scully, 20, as telling of a five-month honeymoon with a pretty Boston schoolgirl, financed by a transcontinental crime tour.

They charged Scully with house-breaking and auto theft.

The 17-year-old bride, identified by police only as the daughter of a wealthy Brookline, Mass., woolen manufacturer, was in custody of juvenile authorities. So was a 15-year-old boy, son of a Lincoln, Neb., railroad man, quoted by police as saying the couple brought him here from Denver, Colo. to help with house-breaking.

Names in juvenile cases are withheld by police here. Officers said the father of the girl was en route here from Massachusetts, and the 15-year-old boy's father from Nebraska.

Kenaf May Rival Jute As World's No. 1 Fiber

WASHINGTON (P)—Kenaf, a fast-growing fiber plant that looks like a hollyhock and is distantly related to both cotton and okra, may someday rival just as a major source of bagging material.

Agricultural scientists of five continents are experimenting with the plant, says the National Geographic Society. They have established that its soft, straw-colored fiber can substitute for jute in sacking, twine and rope, and caulking materials, as well as in backing for rugs and carpets. Still undetermined is whether it can be grown and processed cheaply enough to compete with jute.

The Australian Government is the latest to test kenaf's commercial possibilities. Successful plantings have been made at Eriama in Papua, New Guinea, and 15,000 additional acres in the Oro Bay region were recently earmarked for seeding. Eventually, it is hoped, kenaf may replace copra sacks and wool packs.

Florida Pilot Plants

Experimental plantings of kenaf have been under way in Florida's Lake Okeechobee region since 1951. Interest of the American government, which annually imports almost one billion pounds of jute and burlap, stems from experiences during World War II when jute supplies from Asia were cut off.

U. S. agronomists believe the fiber may one day be a major crop in many of the southern states. Meanwhile, the United States is also encouraging Latin American growers to test the plant. Technical assistance is furnished under the Point Four Program.

Cuba, experimenting with kenaf on a large scale since 1943, envisions homegrown output sufficient to bag its entire sugar crop. Cuba annually imports $20,000,- 000 worth of sugar bagging. A local kenaf industry also would provide off-season employment for sugar workers.

Long Known To World

Kenaf is not new. Both India and Pakistan, which produce 95 per cent of the world's jute supply, grow kenaf commercially. But it has always been a stepchild to jute in those countries. Manchuria has extensively cultivated the fiber in the last 25 years. Before World War II, 25 per cent of its jute requirements were filled by kenaf fiber.

Russia has experimented with the crop since 1933. South Africa, Java, Brazil and El Salvador also have produced it in limited quantities.

Kenaf, or Hibiscus cannabinus as it is scientifically known, has a slender single stem that grows 10 to 12 feet high in three months. The fiber is in the bark of the stalk, around a pithy core. It is extracted either mechanically or by retting in stagnant water.
